. THE PUB IN THE VALLEY .

In Victoria's sunny Latrobe in a Valley know quite well
There's a bonza little pub, Yarragon Commercial Hotel
It's not a fancy modern pub, like some you may have seen but very warm and friendly, just like it's always been

T'was built way back in early times, in pioneering days
When all that transport people knew, was horse or bullock drays
Though now we have flash motor cars, and fly around in planes
The old pub hasn't altered much, it still looks much the same

Down through years its heard some tales that made it shake with mirth
And sadness too has sometimes touched this hotel since its birth
It has seen the passing of old mates, who sometimes live again
When friend's call in to quench their thirst, recalling their antics over again

And as they did so long ago, the crap and bullshit would fly
When people tell of giant gums they fetch down from the sky
And where old timers would skite about their blocks
The cockies now take up the theme and skite about their stock

It matters not from whence you come nor what your god may be The Yarragon Commercial Hotel, is 'home' to all, you see
With a warm and friendly greeting and a smile that's never cold
It's always a pleasure to meet new friends and welcome back the old.
